

Sample TDSC Character Trait

In the short story, "The Nest" by Robert Zacks there is excellent character development. The character Jimmy has the character trait of being determined. A character trait is a quality of a person's personality. There are many examples, in the story, to support this character trait. Jimmy shows determination when he was not allowed to go on the hike, Jimmy's mother told him that Paul was a bad influence, and when Jimmy decided to bring Paul home after the hike.

The first example of Jimmy being determined is when his mother told him he was not allowed to go on the hike and he immediately stood up for himself. A quote to show this is "he was on his feet yelling...in his bursting anguish for freedom". By standing up for himself he showed that he has the character trait of determination.

Another support for the character being determined is Jimmy's mother told him that Paul was a bad influence on him, however, Jimmy didn't agree. A quote for this is when Jimmy states that "he's nice...he isn't a thief". Jimmy shows his determination by standing up to supporting his friend Paul by going on the hike.

A final example to prove that he is a determined character is when Jimmy decides to bring Paul home to prove that he is a nice boy. To quote the story Jimmy said "I'm bringing him home to supper. I said that you asked him". By being firm with his mother, Jimmy showed his determination to prove that Paul was in fact a great boy.

In conclusion, through standing up for himself, for going on the hike anyway, and for bringing Paul home we can conclude that Jimmy has the character trait of being determined.

In the short story, "The Nest" by Robert Zacks there is excellent character development. The character Jimmy has the character trait of being determined. A character trait is a quality of a person's personality. There are many examples, in the story, to support this character trait. Jimmy shows determination when he was not allowed to go on the hike, Jimmy's mother told him that Paul was a bad influence, and when Jimmy decided to bring Paul home after the hike.

The first example of Jimmy being determined is when his mother told him he was not allowed to go on the hike and he immediately stood up for himself. A quote to show this is "he was on his feet yelling...in his bursting anguish for freedom". By standing up for himself he showed that he has the character trait of determination.

Another support for the character being determined is Jimmy's mother told him that Paul was a bad influence on him, however, Jimmy didn't agree. A quote for this is when Jimmy states that "he's nice...he isn't a thief". Jimmy shows his determination by standing up to supporting his friend Paul by going on the hike.

A final example to prove that he is a determined character is when Jimmy decides to bring Paul home to prove that he is a nice boy. To quote the story Jimmy said "I'm bringing him home to supper. I said that you asked him". By being firm with his mother, Jimmy showed his determination to prove that Paul was in fact a great boy.

In conclusion, through standing up for himself, for going on the hike anyway, and for bringing Paul home we can conclude that Jimmy has the character trait of being determined.